I was a great sufferer from Dyspepsia-and Constipation. I had no appetite, became greatly debilitated, and was con-stantly afflicted with Headache and Dizzi-ness. I consulted our family doctor, who prescribed for me, at various times, with-out affording more than temporary relief. I finally commenced taking Ayer's Pills. I commenced taking Ayer's Pilis, and, before finishing half a box of this medicine, my appetite and strength were restored.

—C. O. Clark, Danbury, Conn.

Ayer's Pills are the best medicine known to me for regulating the bowels; and for all diseases caused by a disordered Stomach and Liver. I suffered for over three years with Hendache, Indigestion, and Constipation. I had no appetite, and was weak and nervous most of the time.

BY USING three boxes of Ayer's Pills, and, at the same time dieting myself, I was completely cured. My digestive organs are now in good order, and I am in perfect health.—Philip Lockwood, Topeka, Kans.

Ayer's Pills have benefited me wonderfully. For months I suffered from Indigestion and Hendache, was restless at night, and had a bad taste in my mouth every morning. After taking one box of Ayer's Pills, all these troubles disappeared, my food digested well, and my sleep was refreshing.—Henry C. Henmanway, Rockport, Mass.

TERRIBLE LANDSLIPS. Atastrophes Which Cocur in the Mo

Many of the Swiss villages exist almost on sufferance. The avalanche of snow or the avalanche of earth may as any moment sweep them away, or what s equally ruinous, overwhelm them with the debris of the mountain at the foot of which they are built. In not a few instances the landslip is so slow in its progress that it is only a question of time when the final catastrophe will be precipitated. At Bee Rouge in the Tarentaise, for example, the aide of the mountain is gradually overwhelming the village of Miror. In most cases, however, the calamity is sudden and unexpected. Such an instance s supplied by the fall of the Rossberg, well known mountain, 5,000 feet high, situated just behind the better known and lortier Rigi. In 1806, after very rainy season, a large portion of he mountain, consisting of hard beds of sandstone and puddling stone resting on soft sandy layers, suddenly swepts across the valley of Goldau, barying four villages, comprising over three hundred houses, nearly five hundred. nhabitants and more than eighty-five square miles of fertile land. In 1865 a mass of debris slid into the valley of the Tiber, which dammed back by the obstruction overflowed the village of San Stefans to the depth of fifty feet, until the drowned village was relieved by means of a hastily constructed canal. Another example of a disastrous landslip is that in which, by the sliding of a portion of Monte Como, the entire village of Plurs, with: 2,430 inhabitants, was in 1618 overwhelmed. For several days before the catastrophe masses of rock had become detached from the mountain and numerous fissures were observed to form or widen on its side. But the village: disregarded the warnings and were in a few minutes buried, with all their ossessions, beneath sixty feet of rock and earth. All attempts to penetrate the mass proved fruitless, and no trace:

of the town has since been seen. The earth which entombed it is now clothed with a luxuriant forest of chestnuts, but the original name still-survives in the little village of Plurs, or It may also be said that these catestrophes are so frequent that history preserves the memory of only the most disastrous. Such a one was that hy which the village of Elm was overwhelmed only a few years ago. At that time the place contained fifty houses and nearly 250 inhabitants, most of them children and old people. Nearly half of them were killed, while most of the dwelling houses were altegether crushed or buried beneath the debris from that portion of the Tschingel Alp, which broke away from its parent mountain. Altogether, though the Elm catastrophe was, in the loss of life and property, of less magnitude than those which overtook Plurs and Goldau, it is doubtful whether it did not, in the amount of rubbish shot from the mountain side, surpass both of these gigantic landslides. The Swiss geologists who visited the spot immediately after the disaster calculated that, at the lowest estimate, the contents of the slip measured 10,000,000 cubic What a vast amount of material this pile contains may be grasped by a simple illustration. Zarich is a city of 76,000 inhabitants. Yet, in the debris shot from the side of the Tschingel Alp there was stone enough to build two Zurichs. Some of the blocks are heaped 300 or 400 feet higher than the village of Elm. One is estimated to weigh 300 tons, and as these gigantic missiles were precipitated from a height of 2,000 feet; the irresistible force with which they fell on the doomed village can easily be imagined.—London Standard.

ARCTIC INDUSTRIES. mportant Mining Operations Carried on

It may not be generally known that important mining operations, are carried on within the Arctic Circle, (Cry olite is brought from Greenland to Philadelphia by the ship-load to be used in the making of candles. At Alten, near the North Cape in Finmark, extensive copper mines have been worked for a ong time. When it is remembered that most of the work has to be done under ground, and that heat is what the workmen suffer most from, it becomes apparent at once that mines may be almost as profitable in those high latitudes as they would be on our coast. The main thing is to have communication open once a year for bringing aup plies and carrying away the ores. An engineer who visited the mines at Alten a few years ago, to study the condition in which they were worked, found that the climate interposed no obstacle. The mines, when fairly deep. are warmer in winter than in summer. In such work as has to be done shove ground, there is scarcely any latersup tion. During the three dark months when the sun does not shine, there is no lack of light to the eye accustomed to the conditions. The sky is clear and starry, the aurors is playing most of the time, and whatever light there is the reflection from the snow increases

More than a hundred and fifty years age mining was carried on extensively about the shores of the White Sea by Saxon workmen. Silver, copper and lead were produced in quantities. Now that the whale fishery has declined mining enterprise seems most likely of any thing to promote exploration and settlement within the Arctic Circle. Youth's Companion.

1886. He spoke of Dr. Flint as the most influential leader in the preparation of the work of this congress, who, had he lived, would have filled and honored the position which the speaker now held. Leaving this sad part President Davis thanked the congress for the honor bestowed in selecting him to preside over the deliberations of so great and learned an assembly. It was an honor apprenature, because it had been bestowed neither by conquest nor hereditary influence, nor yet by partisan strife, but by gates, he welcomed them cordially to the pen arms and warm hearts of the medcal men of this country, and greeted them as a noble brotherhood who, in the pur-suit of one grand object—the lessening of human suffering—recognize no distinction of country, race or creed, but bind up the wounds of and assuage the pains of the rich and poor, rulor and ruled, Christian and pagan, friend and foe alike. Prosident Davis then traced the history of the development of modical science from the time when it embraced the fanciful theories and arbitrary dogma of a few leading minds, up to to-day when the science of medicine has become a vast the science of medicine has become a vast aggregation c observed facts, many of them so related to each other as to permit practical deductions of per-manent value, while many others are isolated through incompleteness of investigations, and therefore liable to prompt, hasty or even erroneous conclusions, and this rapid accumulation of facts fur-nished by vast numbers of individual workers, each pushing investigations in some special direction without concert with his fellows and without any adequate conception of the coincident lines of observation necessary to enable him to see the true bearings of the facts he evolves, President Davis pointed to as one of the most defective and embarrassing features in the present day in the science and art of medicine. Hence the physician is con-stantly mistaking mere coincidences for the relation of cause and effect, and pages

AWFUL PANIC IN THEATER.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—During the performance of "The Romany Rye" in the theat ter at Exeter, last evening, the building was discovered to be on fire. The audience at Baltimore, Louisvilles at New York, Clevelands at Philadelphia. ecame panic-stricken and made a fran Philadelphias at Boston, Washingtons at New York Chicagos at Detroit, Indianapolis at Pittsburgh tic rush for the exits in spite of the heroi forts of the attaches to reassure then efforts of the attaches to reassure them and induce them to go out quietly. The occupants of the pit engaged in an awful struggle for egress in the narrow aisles, Men and women were deliberately knocked down and trampled upon by those behind them, and hundreds of pe on a were almost entirely denuded in son a were almost the terrible fight for life. The pit was finally cleared, but a large number of the occupants of that portion of the house were seriously inured and presented a horrible speciacl s they reached the streets. The occupants of the gallery did not fare so well. There was only one very narrow exit from the upper tier involving the descent of a very to act upon the claims of the St. Louis long flight of stairs, and here an almost indescribable scene of terror and slaughter of the gate receipts, whenever the game was played outside of St. Louis, but the ensued. The shricks, groans and curses Ahe threatened to go over to the League. He said: "My club draws bigger crowds than any in the Association and I want the per centage rule adopted. I am of the imprisoned and mangled, the wounded and the dying were perfectly think possibly it would be better to wait until the annual meeting." heartrending, but there was no relief, and in a moment scores of men and women were either suffocated to death or killed President Byrne of Brooklyn said that the Association would not make the conby being trodden upon. A fire-escape was at last brought to one of the gallery wincession asked by St. Louis. He was in favor of the retention of Wikoff, and dows, and through this medium the pressure was relieved, and a great many persons were lowered to the streets. As soon as the house had been cleared of the living, the The Rule Adopted.

New York, Sept. 6.—At yesterday's special meeting of the American Base Ball Association the rule that all visiting work of removing the dead was begun and sixty bodies were taken out by means of the fire escape. The wounded survivors were conveyed to the hospital and their number at this time can not be definitely ascertained, but it is very large. The total number of lives lost is estimated at one hundred, but may exceed that

The fire started in the flies during the fourth act of the play. When the flames were discovered a drop scene was lowered to prevent the current of air from increas-ing the blaze. After this was done the ictors and stage bands threw open a door to make their escape, when the draft caused the flames to burst through to of the gallery. The flames overtook the bindermost of the unfortunate people who were wedged in the stairway and literally coasted them alive. There was no escap for them; the fire being at their backs and a compact, immovable mass of human beings in front. The firemen reached the upper windows and took out all the people they could find, but most of them were dead and many others died soon after they were taken out. The hospitals revived a few persons who were thought to be dead from suffocation, but at four o'clock this morning hearly a hundred corpses laid in rows on the floor, and these did not com-prise the total number of the dead, as a great many bodies were burned to ashes great many bodies were burned to ashes in the theater. Some of the dead were simply suffocated and not at all mutilated or burned. The occupants of the dress circle escaped without injury, the injured and dead being confined to the pit and the upper circles. The building was destroyed.

One hundred and thirty bodies have been taken out of the theater thus far. Of these one hundred were men and boys and jured were taken to the hospital, and a large number were taken to their homes SMALL, BUT ENTHUSIASTIC. That con-lacking to the success of the meeting is tract is binding on the Reading, and it is numbers was most certainly supplied in enthusiasm. Resolutions of purport similar to those adopted at Ennis Sunday wer ilar to those adopted at Ennis Sunday werd passed by vociforous acclamation, and the speeches were earnestly and loudly applauded. Letters of regres were read from Mr. Gladstone, Sir George O. Trevelyan, Lord Ripon and others, each of whom, while explaining his unavoidable absence, expressed the deepest sympathy with the objects of the meeting and condemnation of the consuments action. In answer to a question relative to the abandonment of the projected line from Philadelphia to New York, Mr. Spencer said: "The Baltimore & Ohio will build Mr. Maud, late secretary of the Liberal Unionist organization, but recently returned to the Liberal party, expressed unreservedly his conviction that the with drawal of the Irish assemblage from Bally Coree hill at the bid-ding of Colonel Turner, was wholly unsatisfactory to the English radicals, who had hoped for a serious col ision between the people and the mili-tary in order that the question whether the right of free speech in Iroland is de-nied by the government might be settled immediately. He admitted the tactics employed by the leaders of the meeting were both wise and humans, but could not think otherwise than that their action had merely deferred the worst posibilities without securing any compensating advantage. A collision between the people and the authorities growing out of the unprovoked interference of the latter with the dearest of human rights was sure to occur sooner or latter, and in his judgment the sooner it came the better. Mr. Maud' utterances were heartily applauded and unquestionably expressed the sense of the meeting.

In ministerial circles there is a general feeling of relief over the fact that no collision occurred—a feeling akin to that ex-perienced by a man who has committed a rash act, and, fearing the worst conse-quences, learns that they have fortunatebeen averted. Hundreds of people go every night to he faith cure and religious camp meet ng held at Boiling Springs, northwest of Decatur 31/2 miles, to hear the strong appeals of the successful evangelist, Mrs. M. B. Woodworth, and her assistante, one young lady praying for half an hour Sunday afternoon while others were talking and singing. But little attention was paid to the fluent supplicant, who emained upon her knees until she had finished her protracted petition. There vere probably 2500 present Sunday aftertoon, and the best of order was main tained. Mrs. Woodworth delivered the sermon, and everybody crowded forward to catch every word uttered, and there were scores at the altar, seeking salvation, some praying, others shouting laughing for joy and clapping hands, all this going on while the evangelist continued to address the multitude. At this meeting one aged lady and one young man professed to have been cured by

A praise meeting was held Monday afternoon when many talked of faith. Mrs. Woodworth declared that the power of faith as applied to man to-day was still effective. God has not changed and neither has Christ. The Bible teaches the same to-day as when Christ was on earth; the lack of faith in the people i the trouble with the world to-day. At this meeting was the wife of Rev.

A. Bradshaw of Decatur. She has been paralyzed for years and has not been able to move without help or crutches She attended the service to try her faith in Christ. At the close of the service the old lady left her crutches with Mrs. Woodworth and walked through the tent and out of the ground to the buggy. There was a blind woman and another paralytic at the camp who are seeking elief. They will attend the services regularly until they get the healing faith. Last night Mrs. Woodworth took for her text, "Prepare to meet thy God." It was a discourse that aroused considerable religious excitement, the service closing with five conversions. Mr Shively, of Warrensburg, afflicted with paralysis, was made to walk without crutches. One eye-witness says the excitement was truly wonderful: something he never expected to see on earth.

During the balance of the week three services will be held daily.

WHERE BURNS WAS BORN.

VISIT TO THE TOWN OF AYR

Special Correspondenced NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Not long ago. I paid a visit to Ayr, where the Poet Burns was born, and took a look at Moggiel, where he afterward owned a farm. Ayr is a thrifty afterward owned a farm. Ayr is a thrifty town of about 10,000 people.

It is full of business and it apparently thinks its men of today fully as great, if not greater, than the poet who has given it an international reputation. It still contains the old Tam O'Shanter inn, where it is said Robert Burns used to drink with Souter Johnny, and I took a glass of ale on the second floor of this in a low cellinged room, the rafters of which were smoked with the dirt of generations. The landlord told me that he had many guests who wanted to take a drink here because Burns had immortalized the place, and I tound his ale good, though heady.

The birthplace of Robert Burns was not in the city of Ayr, but in a little low, one story the city of Ayr, but in a little low one story thatched but lying on the edge of the road about two miles away. A few shillings paid a bright eyed Scotch hoy to drive me to it in a one horse buggy, and the road led through the cultivated farms and pretty bits of scenery along the river Doon, which Burns has immortalized in his song. The house is of the rudest description, and it is what is known in Scotland as an "auld clay biggin."

If you want to see a noted monument you pay four cents to get to it; if you enter the St. John Knox preached, it costs you six cents, and if you want to see where Walter Scott lived and worked at Abbottsford, it will cost

The sights are, of course, worth the money, but this measuring fame by dollars and cents is peculiar, and it takes the enthusiasm out of is peculiar, and it takes up entraisasm out or one to see great heroes charged for at a penny apiece. The birthplace of Burns shows the intense poverty with which he had to contend throughout his whole life. There are only two rooms in the house outside of those used as a barn or stable, and Burns was born in the kitchen. The room is said to be the same now as it was that cold January day in 1759, when he first saw the light. It is low, and its floor is of cold, broken flagstone. There is a fireplace at the left, where the family cook-ing was done, and at the back of the room in some shelves set into the wall is a collection of plates and china of old patterns. Two chairs and a table constitute the furniture and the bed is made in a deep ledge in the wall at the left. It was in that hed that Hobert Burns was born.
Only a few days after his birth the wind was so strong that it blew off the gable of the cottage, and baby Burns and his mother had to flee to a neighbor's cottage until it was repaired. The old Burns clock is here kept. The table in the room is the one which Burns ised to eat from, and the frame work of this bed was once sold as a curiosity for $100. The cottage and grounds are now owned by trustees, and I doubt not they make a pretty

The graveyard, in which it is situated, is on a ter-race above the road, and a ragged old Scotchman, with an accent as old as the mossgrown graves, shows the visitors about and points out the objects of interest. I greased his hand with a few coppers and he repeated no name with a few coppers and he repeated poem after poem of Burns to me. He had them by heart, and sang them off with a slight nasal twung which is indescribable. He pointed through the broken windows to whore Tam.
